

An information processing apparatus is provided, to which apparatus an operating apparatus and an apparatus to be operated by the operating apparatus are connected, the information processing apparatus including an instruction information storing part and an instruction information send part. The instruction information storing part stores instruction information for the apparatus to be operated. The instruction information send part reads the instruction information from the instruction information storing part in response to a request from the operating apparatus and sends the instruction information to the operating apparatus.

20